BLADINGTON is a parish and village, separated from Warwickshire on the east and south by the river Evenlode, on the Eastern border of the county, within a mile west of Kingham junction on the Great Western railway, 4 miles south-east-by-east from Stow-on-the-Wold and 30 east from Gloucester, in the Eastern division of the county, Slaughter hundred, Stow-on-the-Wold union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Stow, archdeaconry of Cirencester and diocese of Gloucester. The church of St. Leonard is an ancient and interesting building of stone, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: the nave, clerestory and aisles are Perpendicular; the western window is Decorated and the south porch and doorway are Early English: there is a piscina on the south side of the chancel and another in the south aisle. the old stained glass has been collected and re-arranged: the chancel was restored in 1881 in the Early English style, at a cost of £850, by Mr. J. E. K. Cutts, architect, of London, and the church was re-seated in 1904 at a cost of £294: there are 95 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1703; marriages, 1761. The living is a discharged vicarage, net yearly value about £100, including 15 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, who are the impropiators, and held since 1871 by the Rev. John Ashford Hartshorne M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. There is a Wesleyan chapel here. A cemetery of a quarter of an acre was formed in 1903, and is under the control of the Parish Council. Six acres of land were awarded to the poor at the time of the inclosure: these now produce £9 yearly. On the Green is a maypole, erected in 1887. The principal landowners are the trustees of the late Michael Waterer esq. who are the lords of the manor, and the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford. The soil is gravel and clay, principally the latter, is rich, and abounds in orchards, from which a large quantity of cider is made. The chief crops are wheat, turnips and apples. The area is 1,539 acres; rateable value, £2,280; the population in 1911 was 403.

BODDINGTON, a parish on the river Chelt and on the old road leading from Gloucester to Cheltenham, 6 miles north-east from Gloucester, 4½ north-west from Cheltenham and 5 south from Tewkesbury, in the Northern division of the county, Tewkesbury hundred (lower part), union and county court district, Cheltenham petty sessional division, rural deanery of Cheltenham and archdeaconry and diocese of Gloucester. The church of St. Mary Magdalen is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a low western tower containing 3 bells: the tower has a sundial on the south side bearing the date 1719: the carved stone pulpit was erected in 1876 by the Rev. W. Waldey, then curate in charge; the chancel was rebuilt and the church thoroughly restored and re-seated with oak benches at the same time: the porch retains a stoup: in 1891 the church underwent further restoration, the cost being defrayed by J. S. Gibbons esq.: there are 130 sittings: the churchyard was consecrated in the year 1469, with the consent of the Abbot of Tewkesbury. The register dates from the year 1656. This is an unendowed chapelry attached to Staverton, and held since 1898 by the Rev. George Allen Fisher Pearson B.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford, who is vicar of and resides at Staverton. Boddington Manor House, the property and residence of John Skipworth Gibbons esq. J.P. is an ancient mansion of stone, occupied at one period of the Civil War by the Parliamentary forces, and withstood a Royalist attack; it is pleasantly situated in its own grounds facing the high road from Cheltenham to Tewkesbury. J. S. Gibbons esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Messrs. Arkell and James Henry McIlquham, of Staverton, are the principal landowners. The soil is chiefly clay and partly applied to pasture, arable and meadow; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are roots and cereals. The area is 1,982 acres; rateable value, £3,267; the population in 1911 was 316.

BARROW, a hamlet in this parish, lies 1 mile south-west from Boddington church, and received its name from a tumulus here.

HAYDEN, a hamlet of Boddington and Staverton, but principally in the latter parish, lies in the lower part of Westminster hundred, and is 4 miles west-by-north
